

“To every thing there is a season”

Ecclesiastes

---

Make burial arrangements this winter and begin a new tradition for your family at the Garden of Remembrance Memorial Park.

The season for planning is now. Gifts of love given to those who matter most can make all the difference—even after you are gone. That’s why you should make your burial arrangements in advance. Not only will you spare your survivors the burden of making stressful decisions during an emotional time, you’ll ensure you’re remembered for always putting your family first.

The Garden of Remembrance’s experienced counselors can make it easy for you to plan for the future. When you do, you’ll provide your family with the peace of mind and assurance that your wishes will be carried out as you intend.

Winter is a beautiful time to explore the grounds and experience the tranquil surroundings.

Fifteen area congregations as well as individuals unaffiliated with a congregation have already reserved burial sections and plots. You can begin a tradition with your family here, too.

Every day you choose how you live your life. It’s time to choose how you want to be remembered.

Learn more at www.gardenofremembrance.org. To make an appointment, tour the memorial park and discuss your needs, call Sheldon Grosberg at 301-428-3000.

Recognition and giving opportunities are available.